ADMIRAL EVANS

Will Preside at a Meeting to Prevent Stagnation of Promotion in the Navy.

Washington, June 1.—Admiral Evans will preside at a meeting of naval officers, appointed "to weed out"
a sufficient number of officers to meet the naval personnel act and prevent stagnation in promotion. The result will be announced July 1 when the vacancies must be made. The act requires that 22 vacancies be created this year. The board is relieved of the disagreeable duty of retiring com-pulsorily the entire number of officers
by the voluntary applications for retirement of some of them, but in any four lieutenant commanders and two lieutenants must be put out of active service.

Landis in the federal court entered an

John Alexander Dowie's widow and this will be affected by compromise soon, the trust estate of Dowie will be disposed of to the creditors, most of whom are connected with the church establishment by Dowie. The order by Judge Landis is expected to result in the complete reorganization of Zion and the restoration of peace among the warring factions of the Dowie followers.

GOVERNMENT MAY TAKE UP SEARCH FOR BOECK.

J. EDWARD BOECK.

New York, June 1.—Reports that J.
Edward Boeck, the missing gem expert and adventurer, was engaged with an American government employee in China to smuggle Chinese art objects into America are now under investigation by the customs authorities.

Steps will be taken also to determine whether the duty was ever paid on the costly porcelain which Boeck kept in his office at No 170 Broadway and on which he borrowed large sums of money.

These porcelains, some of which are
of great value, were part of an exhibition brought to the St. Louis Exposition by the Chinese Government. They came into the country under bond, and unless the duty was paid they should now be back in China.

New Haven, Conn., June 1.—Secretary of State Elihu Root, returned a check for $1,200 sent him for delivering the Dodge lectures, with a letter stating that his Yale trip resulted in so much fun that he would feel guilty in accepting money for the journey. He thanked President Hadley, Secretary Stokes and Judge Townsend for their hospitality. The check sent him was the income from the Dodge lecture foundation. The Yale officials have not yet decided what to do with it.

THE BREWERY WORKERS ARE EXPELLED BY PRESIDENT GOMPERS

Washington, June 1.—President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, today issued a formal order of expulsion of the United Brewery Workmen of America from the Federation. The action was taken on account of the failure of the Brewery Workmen's Union to carry out the mandate of the Minneapolis convention of the American Federation to refrain from further inclusion in its membership of workmen who are employed as firemen, engineers and teamsters. Officials of the Federation say the action prevents the Brewery Workers from being represented in the Central Labor bodies in states and cities. Beer manufactured by the expelled organization will hereafter be considered as a non-union product.

day and after that we will have real summer weather.

SUSPENDED

By a Crushed and Broken Arm For Nearly Five Hours Before He Was Rescued.

Winchester, N. H., June 1.—Sam Bollinger, engineer, of the Maxville stone quarry, while going to off a con-gratual pump from the top of a 30 ft. derrick, the engine was running on half steam and in falling he grasped the beam so that his arm was suspended in the air for nearly five hours, when he was discovered by two farmers, who were passing shortly after daylight. Bollinger's arm acted as a wedge and stopped the machinery. It was found to a pulp and three ribs were broken. His injuries are thought to be fatal.

Bollinger is a veteran of the Civil war and during the winter acts as an engineer in the Marion Soldiers' Home.
He was out on a furlough.

MAN WAS JEALOUS STABBED HIS WIFE WITH JACKKNIFE

FRIGHTFUL CRIME COMMITTED
BY FORMER MI VERNON
MAN AT DETROIT.

KIDNAPPED HIS OWN CHILD

Picture of Alleged Lover Found Pinned to the Dead Woman's Waist.
Tried Suicide.

Detroit, Mich., June 1.—David Walters, of Mt. Vernon, Ohio, murdered his wife in the night by cutting her head from her shoulders with a jackknife and stabbing her a dozen times in the body. Leaving the body on the floor of a bed room Walters went to a shed in the rear of her home and cut his throat, slashed his wrists and cut a gash in his forehead. At St. Mary's Hospital it is said he cannot live.

Walters four months ago kidnapped his four year old daughter and deserted his wife in Mt. Vernon it is alleged. Two weeks ago Mrs. Walters came to Detroit to keep house for her two young brothers. She did not know her husband was in Detroit.
He broke into her house, and when he did not find her at home sent for her.

As Mrs. Walters entered Walters plunged the knife into her shoulder.
She fought him until she fell to the floor, dying a few minutes later.

Walters has a chance to recover.
Walters killed the woman, because,
he said, she followed Clifford Kirkpatrick to Detroit, and charges that Kirkpatrick ruined his home. Walters and his wife separated at Mt.
Vernon, O., four months ago. Walters went to Findlay, his wife to Detroit.

A picture of Kirkpatrick was found pinned on the woman's waist.

Walters left a note from his wife,
addressed to Kirkpatrick as "My only
dear one," with a note from himself to Kirkpatrick that he had ruined his home. Kirkpatrick was arrested, but later was released. He says he is engaged to marry a Lebanon, O., girl on July 4.

TROLLEY WRECK DEATH LIST MAY BE INCREASED

Elyria, June 1.—Reports from the hospital today are that the condition of Mrs. Sala, and Conductor Avery, who were injured in the Memorial Day trolley wreck, are serious and they will probably die before night.
That would bring the deaths to nine.

The grand jury investigation of the wreck was continued to Monday, at which time other witnesses will be heard and it is believed at least one indictment will be returned. Motor-man Frendener, who is held on a manslaughter charge, was refused bail
this morning because his bondsmen
on a $5,000 bond were not acceptable to the prosecutor. Inspector Jackson, representing the state railroad commission, is here investigating the wreck, entirely independently of the grand jury's probe. The coroner's jury will probably begin an investigation Tuesday, as the company officials are expected to go before the grand jury Monday and the coroner also wants to examine them.

BANKER WALKED 186 LONG MILES

Kansas City, Mo., June 1.—Frank Hageman, president of the First National bank, the Library Association and the Chautauqua Association of Salina, Kansas, started from home in Salina to walk to Kansas city, 186
long, hot miles, and did it.

Banker Hageman wanted to visit his father, who lives here. He talked about his scheme to his cronies. F.
McAdams, president of the Salina State bank, and Clarence Wilson, an attorney, and the talk ended in a friendly wager that he couldn't walk to Kansas City.

On the morning of May 24, Banker Hageman and McAdams and Lawson Wilson trudged out of Salina and no whole team turned out to see them off. They walked that day to Abilene, where M. P. Grosser, a rich bummer man, and I. C. York, an oil magnate, friends who also figured in the water joined them. Hageman finished alone Friday night.

George Burnham, Jr., former general counsel of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance company, now serving a term in Sing Sing for grand larceny, was granted a new trial.

SEVEN LOGGERS WERE DROWNED

Boise, June 1.—While attempting to make a landing above the rapids in the Payette river, twelve miles from Garden Valley, seven loggers were drowned. Two boats which they were using were carried over the rapids and swamped. Nine other occupants of the boats barely managed to reach shore.

PRES. ROOSEVELT AWARDS MEDAL TO HEROINE IN N. Y.

Washington, June 1.—A medal of honor has been awarded to Miss Mary Guinan of Middletown, N. Y., by President Roosevelt for risking her life to save that of John C. Runyon, an aged man who was in danger of being run down by an Erie railroad train. Mr. Runyon, who is 74 years old and very feeble, attempted to cross the tracks in front of an approaching train, not observing that another train was coming on an adjoining track from the opposite direction. He became bewildered and Miss Guinan seized and held him firmly between the two tracks as the trains rushed by. Measurement showed that the space between the swaying trains was barely thirty-six inches.

PARTNER ROBBED OF TEN THOUSAND

Joint Capital Had Been Buried in a Livery Stable Stall—No Trace of Criminal.

Memphis, Tenn., June 1.—Peter Lay, a dairyman of Shreveport, La., discovered that he had been robbed of $10,000, his entire capital. Lay came here with an acquaintance of a few days named Maroni, seeking a business location. Before leaving Shreveport they buried their joint capital of $15,000, of which $10,000 belonged to Lay, in a livery stable stall. Shortly after their arrival Maroni disappeared, and when Lay's Shreveport friends
were notified to dig up the money,
they found it had disappeared.

BARRET LAUDS PRES. ROOSEVELT

rett, director of the International Bureau of American Republics, was the orator at the ground breaking exercises of the Alaska, Yukon, Pacific exposition today. Barrett said that President Roosevelt had sent his sincere greetings to Seattle and regrets that time would not allow him to make the long trip to the coast to take part in the ceremonies. Barrett said the President had hearty praise for the energy and courage of the great Pacific Northwest.

ALLEGED EMBEZZLER ARRESTED AT WHEELING

Wheeling, June 1.—H. O. Hoehn, of Cincinnati, wanted in Indianapolis on a charge of embezzling $40,000 in bonds and $11,000 in money from his sister, and a bank, was arrested here this morning. Cincinnati officers took him back.

Fate of Aeronauts.

London, June 1.—In spite of the most strenuous efforts of the government authorities and others, the fate of the two young engineer officers, Lieutenants Caulfield and Leake, who went up in a balloon from Aldershot camp May 28, remains a mystery. The officers at Aldershot have practically given up hope.

THE STEAM ROADS KILLED MORE THAN TRACTION LINES

Columbus, June 1.—The report of the State Railroad Commission for May shows that the steam roads of Ohio killed 71 people and the traction lines 12. The commission will try to have a law passed to prevent such catastrophes as the Elyria trolley wreck.

VESSELS COLLIDE

DUNCAN TO JAIL FOR SIXTY DAYS AT BOISE, IDAHO

ONLY TWO VACANCIES NOW RE-MAIN ON THE HAYWOOD JURY.

HAD CONCEALED WEAPONS

Was the Charge Placed Against the Man Who Was Arrested on Tuesday.

Boise, Idaho, June 1.—Carl H. Duncan, the man who was arrested
here on Tuesday as a suspicious character at the instance of one of the Socialist writers in attendance at the Haywood trial, appeared in court on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.
The evidence showed that he carried a revolver and a dagger in his satchel.
His defense was that he came to Boise expecting to work on a ranch as a cattle man, and that it was customary to carry weapons. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 or in default to go to jail for 60 days. He went to jail.

There remain but two vacancies in the jury that will try William D. Haywood for alleged participation in the Steinberg murder. As jury selection narrows down to final chances later-est in the case increases and the contest grows distinctly sharper. The state has exhausted its arbitrary rights as to the personnel of the jury,
using its tenth peremptory challenge.
The new special venire of 61 talenmen that presented itself when the trial was resumed proved very fruitful.
There were the usual excuses, but only five of them moved the heart of the now stern court. Talesman J. A.
Robertson, the first man called, qualified in a canter for the vacancy created by the seventeenth peremptory challenge, and the defense at once challenged Juror Harmon Cox, the veteran, whom it tried so hard to disqualify Monday. This made the ninth challenge used by the defense. At the same time the state made a challenge from both sides and was accepted for the place. Then the court finally dealt with Juror Tourtelotte, who opposed capital punishment and whose manifest disqualification had been running for several days. Judge Wood called the question up and first both sides fenced on it. Finally the state challenged Tourtelotte and the court excused him. The defense reserved a point on the matter because it may prove valuable fighting ground on appeal. Talesman Nelson Freeman qualified for Tourtelotte's old place, but the state did not care to have him on the jury and fired its last challenge
at him.

HAYWOOD SEIZED TRIAL RECESSED

Boise City, June 1.—Wm. D. Haywood was seized with a severe attack of neuralgia in the head this morning and although Doctors Hallister and Lewis worked hard to get him in physical shape to be present in court at 9:30, it was found impossible and court recessed until 1:30 when he may be able to be present.

FACING

A Shower of Bullets From a Saloon Keeper, Staggs Ran Him Through the Heart.

Bedford, Ind., June 1.—Deil Ross, a saloon keeper, aged 35 years, was stabbed to death by Frank Staggs, aged 39 years at East Colicite.

Staggs, on his way to his home,
was stopped by Ross, who, witnesses say, bore an old grudge. Staggs had rooted Ross from a neighbor's porch
some nights ago, but he did not know it was Ross, thinking it was a tramp trespassing in the owner's absence.
"You look like the man who gave me a run over the hills the other night," said Ross.

"Not that I know of," said Staggs.
"Yes, you did," insisted Ross.
"And now I'm going to make you fight."

Passing down an automatic revolver and began firing. Staggs closed in and stabbed him in the heart. He died almost instantly. Staggs gave himself up.

Muncie, Ind., June 1.—Cracksmen
this morning blew to pieces the safe in the general store of John Orr at chandise. They then blew the postof Henry Williams and escaped toward Muncie with a stolen rig.

Modern Woodmen.

Cedar Camp No. 4727 Modern Woodmen of America, met in regular session on Monday night with all officers and 78 members present. Three applicants were elected to membership. Three candidates were adopted as beneficial members of the camp. The counsel appointed Neighbors R. R. Jones, N. C. Sherburne and E. A. Howard to draft resolutions on the death of our late neighbor Henry Deitz. The committee on Woodmen memorial reported progress and that everything was ready for the memorial services and made a request that every Modern Woodman that can, be at the M. W. of A. hall promptly at 1:30 p. m. on the afternoon of Sunday, June 2, 1907, to turn out in the march to Cedar Hill cemetery, and if possible to bring flowers. The committee reported that there was a scarcity of flowers this year and all Woodmen that can are requested to bring a small bunch of flowers as there are 21 of the Neighbors of Cedar Camp that are buried at Cedar Hill. Neighbor L. C. Russell will deliver the memorial address and a very suitable program has been arranged, which will be held upon the mound in the rear of the vault. All neighbors are requested to wear their lodges. At the next regular meeting of Cedar Camp on Monday night, June 3, there will be several candidates to be initiated into the mysteries of woodcraft and a good turn out of the members is desired. Neighbor, how about that candidate that you were going to have at this meeting of the camp? Have you forgotten about it? Zanesville adopted a class of 58 at their last meeting. Why can't we do the same, or even better? If each neighbor will try to bring in just one new member, we would not fear any camp taking the state banner away from us, as there are several camps who are very near Cedar camp and they are hot after the banner, and if Cedar camp doesn't get a hustle on herself, they will get the banner when the proper time comes.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

Messrs. Max Negelo, Charles Theurer, U. F. Rosser and Samuel Herman, Newark boys, had a thrilling experience and a narrow escape from drowning at Buckeye Lake. They had chartered one of the motor boats at the resort and had been sailing over the lake for some time, when one of the young men began rocking the boat, which finally caused it to turn turtle, throwing the young men into the deep water. There were no other boats near by and the young men had a desperate struggle in their efforts to reach land, which they finally succeeded in doing, all being completely worn out with their exertions.

ASSAULT CHARGED DENIAL IS MADE

Fred Eckelberger, aged 36, a farmer, was arrested Saturday by Chief Sheridan on a warrant charging him with assault upon Mrs. Mazy Thompson, the 16-year-old wife of Thomas Thompson, who is but a few years older than his wife.

The offense is said to have been committed Friday, but Eckelberger enters a general denial of the offense.

The young man was taken before Mayor McCleery and entered a plea of not guilty and the hearing was set for Saturday, June 8. Eckelberger gave bond for his appearance and was released.

OLENTANGY PARK.

Olentangy Park, Theater and Zoological Garden, the big Columbus amusement resort, is now open for the season of 1907, and is "bigger and better than ever." Numerous new attractions have been installed this year and visitors are fairly bewildered by the variety and magnitude of the entertainment offered. The new dancing pavilion at Olentangy this year will be the largest and finest in the state. Free out door attractions are presented each week, and Powell's Big Union Band, of 30 musicians, give free concerts every afternoon and evening. The Zoological Garden, Museum of Ornithology, Japanese Village and Gypsy Camp are also free.

Superb productions twice daily are presented in the theater.

Rigg's Rough Riders are also giving a big open air Wild West show every afternoon and evening. This organization carries 75 Indians, cowboys and ranch girls, with over 50 horses, and present an exciting reproduction of life on the plains.

These special attractions, in addition to the other numerous amusements, will make Olentangy Park the foremost amusement resort in the entire country, and a visit to this Park will be almost equal to a World's Fair trip.

Real estate values in New York City, according to the assessment figures, are increasing $1,096,970 each day.

GRANVILLE NEWS

Granville, O., June 1.—There was a called meeting of the village council Thursday evening at the home of Mayor Jones, which proved to be of special interest to those present. His Honor had summoned all the members of the council and the village officials in regular attendance at the council meetings, to spend the evening of Memorial Day in a social manner, and it is needless to say that all responded, with the exception of Mr. Norris and Mr. James, who were unable to be present on account of sickness. After a short time spent in social converse, Mr. and Mrs. Jones invited the gentlemen to the dining room, where a most bountiful repast of several courses was served, which was certainly appreciated to the fullest extent possible. After spending the rest of the evening very pleasantly, and before adjourning the council voted the Mayor an ideal host and the session an entire success.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tuttle of Omaha, Neb., who have been visiting relatives and friends in Newark and the vicinity of Granville for some days, have gone to Columbus, where they will visit their daughter, Mrs. H. M. Moore for a few days before returning home.

The house was beautifully decorated with the fraternity colors of gold and blue, and in red roses. In the afternoon Mrs. Herrick, Mrs. Hopley, Mrs. Handley and Mrs. Clark Chamberlin, Miss Alice Deitz and Miss Marguerite Jones assisted in pouring the chocolate punch. A great many friends were entertained and a most pleasant time was had by those present. In the evening the Sigma Chis entertained the young ladies of the village and of Shepardson college. The house was decorated the same as in the afternoon and a delicious luncheon was served. Both afternoon and evening music was furnished by a string orchestra. This was one of the most enjoyable evenings spent by those who enjoyed the hospitality of the Sigma Chis.

On Friday afternoon from 3:30 o'clock until 6:30 o'clock, the Philomathean Literary society entertained its seniors at the home of Mr. Norris on Mulberry street, when the following program was carried out:

o'clock delicious refreshments were served on the spacious lawn. A pleasant time was had and it was with regret that the Philos said farewell to Mary McKibben, Elsie Wright, Mary Montgomery, Ida Wickenden, Madeline Dustin, Minnie Norris. On Friday evening Miss Parsons and the young ladies of King Hall entertained a large number of young men. The hall was beautifully decorated with dogwood blossoms, and dainty refreshments were served during the evening.

Is the joy of the household, for without it no happiness can be complete. How sweet the picture of mother and babe! Angels smile at and commend the thoughts and aspirations of the mother bending over the cradle. The ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass, however, is so full of danger and suffering that she looks forward to the hour when she shall feel the exquisite thrill of motherhood with indescribable dread and fear. Every woman should know that the danger, pain and horror of childbirth can be entirely avoided by the use of Mother's Friend, a scientific liniment for external use only, which toughens and renders pliable all the parts, and assists nature in its sublime work. By its aid thousands of women have passed this great crisis in perfect safety and without pain.

This is the case which has been on trial for several days in Common Pleas court to determine the location of the line between the farms of the plaintiff and defendants.

"Gladly would I die for you," exclaimed the elderly suitor. "Yes, but how soon?" demanded the practical maiden.

Father Time don't get intoxicated, although we often hear of the fullness of time.

No, Maude dear, the statesman is not always stately.

June 1 In History.

1841—Sir David Wilkie, R. A., celebrated Scottish painter, died at sea off Gibraltar; born 1785.
1872—James Gordon Bennett, founder of the New York Herald, died in New York; born 1795. Bennett was a pioneer newspaper maker. When his paper was a weak, struggling affair, he reported the great New York fire of 1835 with a fullness of detail and incident which set the fashion for the times. He introduced the daily money article and engaged correspondents in Europe and in the principal American cities. He employed newsboys to circulate the Herald and was, in fact, original, aggressive and audacious in an age when to be so required genius of the highest type.
1879—James Shields, American general, died in Ottumwa, Ia.; born in Dunganon, Ireland, 1810. Prince Louis Napoleon, the only child and heir of Napoleon III., killed by the Zulus in South Africa, where he served on the staff of the British commander.
1903—A cyclone at Gainesville, Ga., killed over 100 persons and injured 200; property loss, $500,000.

Mr. Judson Harmon, attorney general under President Cleveland and a man of presidential dimensions himself, meets the demand of the Republicans for "the revision of protection by its friends" with the demand for the "revision of the tariff by the friends of the people." This is a pretty good keynote. Really, the entire question of tariff revision is contained in the problem whether it shall be framed for the benefit of a few or for the good of all. Mr. Harmon is quite safe in saying that the Republican leaders would not revise the tariff in the interest of the people, even if they revised it at all. They will certainly make no revision except under fear of defeat, and if they are scared into revision, or into promising it in the event of carrying the next election, they will make the same sort of a tariff they always have made—strictly for the benefit of the few at the expense of the many.

Uncle Joe Cannon is not as badly off as Topsy, who never was born. He was born all right, and he has good reason to believe it was in North Carolina; but he has been down there and can't find the place. This uncertainty may lead to grave future dispute in tar-heel localities anxious for natal notoriety.

The Railroad Gazette asks why the old 80-pound rails made years ago and still in use on the railroads stand the hammering of the heavy locomotives better than the 100-pound rails now turned out by the Steel Trust. This is an inquiry of vital interest, especially in view of late railway smash-ups caused by broken rails.

OLIVE OIL A NEW FAD

English Woman Follows Advice With Pleasing Effects and Starts
a Cult.

London, April 30.—"What shall I take for my complexion?" a reigning beauty in British aristocratic society asked of Sir Thomas Barlow, physician to King Edward's household, the current number of a medical paper reports.

Take olive oil," Sir Thomas answered. "Live on it; live in it; live with it; eat it; drink it; dress your food with it and don't do without it—lubricate your system.

As the result of following this advice the lady achieved her desire—a clear skin. Then she began to give beauty luncheons in which olive oil was very prominent. And these luncheons became popular.

"Olive oil, though incapable of supporting life if taken alone, nevertheless lends itself, the periodical explains, "to a diminished meat diet as it prevents waste of tissue. The warm, rosy complexion of the Italian and Sicilian woman is due to the tree use of olive oil as much as to the air and climate of their country.

"From one to two tablespoonfuls spread over the day in different ways is quite sufficient to achieve the results hoped for by the king's physician."

The olive oil recommended by Sir Thomas Barlow is for sale by

STRIKE SETTLED

OF TEN THOUSAND IRON WORKERS AT FRISCO AFTER MANY WEEKS.

Strike in France Ties Up Ports—Miners Will Not Go Out in the Pittsburg District.

San Francisco, June 1. — The rift in the series of strikes and unsettled labor conditions which have overshadowed San Francisco for many weeks occurred when the strike of 10,000 iron workers was settled. The men went out several weeks ago to enforce a demand for an eight hour workday and an increase in wages. The men will return upon the same conditions of hours and wages as prevailed when they struck. These are to remain in effect for 18 months.

STRIKE IN FRANCE.

Paris, June 1. — Activity at all French ports is paralyzed by the general strike inaugurated by all branches of the ship workers of France. The movement is not attended with bitterness against the employers or revolutionary feelings. The manifestations are made to draw the attention of the country to the strikers' cause.

The naval reserves comprise almost the entire maritime population devoted to sea-faring life. They number about 117,000 men, of whom 25,000 belong to the war fleet. Practically the entire personnel of the merchant marine, as well as the longshoremen, are inscribed in the naval reserve. The executive committee of the National Seamen's union ordered the strike because the members of the union regard the government's new bill increasing pensions from $40.80 to $72.50 in the case of seamen and from $156 to $200 in the case of captains as being inadequate.

Naval reservists claim in a manifesto that it is impossible for the widows of seamen to support themselves and raise children on the pensions granted by the government. The men are well-behaved, and as an instance of the sentiments back of the strike there is the fact that harbor watches have been provided by the strikers for all ships in port.

The government, fully alive to the importance of the movement, has made arrangements to assure the continuation of the maritime postal services and the transportation of perishable cargoes. The cabinet will hold a special meeting today in an effort to end the strike, as the leading steamship lines are much embarrassed, and have appealed to the government to take rapid steps to remove the cause of a state of affairs for which they are in no way responsible.

AVERTED

Has Been Threatened Strike of Coal Miners in Pittsburg District.
Pittsburg, Pa., June 1.—A threatened strike of coal miners in the Pittsburg district has been averted for thirty days at least by a resolution adopted at a meeting of mine officials and the officials of the miners' organization. The controversy is over the ratchet dump, the use of which the miners claim is a violation of the present scale agreement. The question was submitted to a committee March 21, but this committee failed to agree. District President Feehan has ordered the men in the mines where the dump is used to strike. About 5,000 miners will be idle until Monday. It was decided to abolish the ratchet sword attachment, the objectionable feature, from June 3, pending a decision of the arbitration board within thirty days.

Strike at Wheeling.
Wheeling, W. Va., June 1. — The strike condition in this city has assumed a serious phase and is threatening to cripple business. In addition to the telephone linemen, carpenters and plumbers that have been on a strike, 300 teamsters have gone out and it is expected the union warehousemen will follow.

TUBERCULOSIS HOSPITAL.

Contractor Evans and an engineer from the office of Architect Packard, of Columbus, have been at the Mt. Vernon sanatorium for tuberculosis grounds the past week and have located building corners and done other preliminary work looking to the beginning of construction of foundations. The work of grading will be commenced shortly. John Ransom commenced the work of removing timber from the building sites Thursday.

SAMUEL MORRIS DROPPED DEAD WHILE AT WORK

MAN WHO WAS WELL KNOWN
ANSWERS A SUDDEN
SUMMONS.

He Was an Inventor and Promoter—
Louis M. Patterson Died Saturday Morning.

Mr. Samuel Morris, whose late residence was on the Cherry Valley road, known as the Slide home, dropped dead at 4.50 p. m. Friday afternoon on the property of the Licking Mining Company, where he was engaged in overseeing some work for the company, and was being assisted by his son.

Mr. Morris was at the mine during the forenoon, and was feeling apparently all right, but when he started to his work in the afternoon, complained of feeling indisposed, and stopped at Dr. D. M. Smith's for treatment and as nothing serious was apprehended he continued on his way to the mine.

At 4:30 while engaged in putting some shafting in line, he stooped to take a sight, and fell over dead.

Charles Harris, who resides near the mining property immediately telephoned to the city asking for aid, but when the ambulance sent out by Bowers & Criss Bros., and doctor arrived it was seen that he was past all medical aid, and his body was taken to the undertakers home. He died of neuralgia of the heart.

Mr. Morris was an expert in the construction of open hearth steel furnaces, and came to Newark in 1897 and at once interested himself in our iron industries, and also was an inventor, having a car coupler that is now being put on the market.

Samuel Morris was born April 17, 1855 at Brownsville Pa. He was married to Clara Slide, September 22, 1903, and is survived by his wife and three children, by his former wife, Mary Isabelle, Mrs. Lila Klingensmith and Mr. B. F. Morris, and three sisters and one brother. His acquaintances were legion and all deeply mourn his death.

The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 1:30 standard time, at the Slide residence in Cherry Valley, interment at Cedar Hill cemetery.

LOUIS M. PATTERSON.

Mr. Louis M. Patterson died Saturday at his late residence at 128 Elmwood avenue, of a complication of diseases. He had been ailing for five months and his death was not unexpected. Mr. Patterson was for years an employee of the Crane-Bliss Hardware company and is spoken of by his employers as a faithful worker and an honest man. He was an old time Democrat and a member of the old school Baptists.

Mr. Patterson is survived by his wife, three sons, Thomas, Levi and Samuel, and one daughter, Lillian. There also survive him three brothers, Samuel, Wilson J. and Amos G. Patterson, and one sister, Mrs. Sarah C. Meridith of Ashland, Ky., who arrived here at noon Saturday.

As now arranged for, the funeral will be held Monday at the Sixth street Baptist church, and the interment will be at Fairmont cemetery, south of the city. The hour for the funeral is not known yet but will likely take place early Monday afternoon.

The deceased was aged about 65 years.

MRS. MARY JANE EVANS.

Croton, June 1.—Mrs. Mary Jane Evans, one of the most estimable women of this section of the county, died at her home here at 6 o'clock Saturday morning after an illness of some time with a complication of diseases, superinduced by a stroke of paralysis. The news of her death will be received with sorrow by many relatives throughout the county, especially in the vicinity of Granville and Homer. The funeral services will be held at her late home on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by her pastor, Rev. J. C. Smith. She is survived by two daughters and one son, Mrs. James Pierson of Conarr, Leona Evans and Wilbur Evans, who live at home. The children have the sympathy of all their friends.

Mrs. Evans was the wife of Nathaniel Evans, one of the oldest and most prominent residents of Croton, who died some years ago. She was a woman of broad intelligence, large sympathy, and every Christian quality, and her death will be greatly felt in the community.

INFANT'S DEATH.

Lizzie Babbs, a child, died Thursday of throat trouble. The parents reside on Washington street and the interment took place Saturday at Mt. Calvary cemetery.

ORIN RHODES' FUNERAL.

Mr. Orin Rhodes, of 523 Wilson street, died Friday at his late residence of heart trouble, aged 53 years. He will be buried at Wilkesville, and the body was taken there Saturday morning.

MISS ASHBROOK'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Miss Joyce Ashbrook will take place Sunday at 1:30 p. m. from the residence at 111

CARD OF THANKS.

In our bereavement in the loss of daughter, wife and sister, Stella Howard Coffel, we wish to express grateful thanks to the many friends for kindnesses during the sickness, death and burial of the departed and for the expressions of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings. All shall ever be remembered with heartfelt gratitude. Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Howard and family, Mr. Hal H. Coffel, husband. 1t

BIG TEXAN

Compelled the Negro Porter to Prepare the Berths—Brownsville Hatred of Foraker.

St. Louis, Mo., June 1.—A big Texan with a six-shooter for a negro porter on a Santa Fe train, near Sealy, Texas, at midnight Wednesday to make up the berths of a party of Brownsville citizens en route to Washington to testify before the Senate committee regarding the "shooting up" of Brownsville by negro troops. K. M. Wishart of the Gulf Coast Land and Investment company at St. Louis, was on the train, and gave this account of the incident today:

"The negro porter knew the party was from Brownsville, and when the conductor told him to make up the berths he refused. The big Texan with the gun in his hand asked the negro, 'Don't you think you had better make up those berths?' The porter thought he had.

"I would have blown that coon's head off if he had refused," said the Texan, and I am sure he meant it.

"If Senator J. B. Foraker ever visited Brownsville he would be tarred and feathered," was the indignant remark of L. R. Cowen, one of the party, here today. "It was outrageous of Foraker to try to make out that we would shoot into our own houses and kill our own citizens."

A. Y. Baker, one of the party and Inspector of Customs at Brownsville, said: "The negro troops could not have remained in Brownsville. The people would have killed them."

The Brownsville party consisted of L. R. Cowen, his wife and two children, A. Y. Baker, Ignacio Garza, Amanda Martinez (a Mexican woman), Louis Harold Cowen and Bernard Kowalski.

The yoke and undersleeves were of open-work batiste.

TWO GRANVILLE MEN INVENT NEW CONCRETE RAILWAY TIE FOR WHICH GOOD OFFER IS MADE

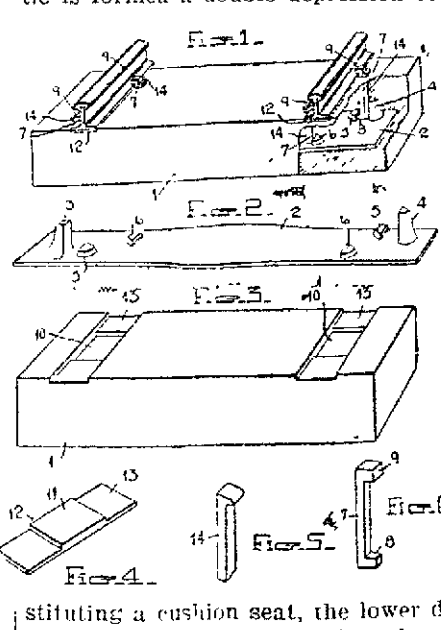

Ernest Legg, the carpenter and builder of Granville, and George H. Wright of the same place, recently secured a patent upon a concrete railroad tie that is attracting much attention among railway men and others. Though the patent was granted only five weeks ago, Messrs. Legg & Wright have already received a flattering offer, but acting upon the advice of their counsel in Washington, have decided to wait for a further hearing before disposing of their rights.

The accompanying illustration and description will give the reader a good idea of the invention. Now that the lumber supply is decreasing so rapidly there will be a demand for a substitute and the concrete tie of Legg & Wright seems to fill the bill.

This invention is an improved concrete railroad tie possessing great strength and constructed in such manner as to prevent the same from being cracked by the vibrations, incident to the passage of trains.

Figure 1 is a view perspective, partly broken away, exhibiting the railway tie of the present invention, and the manner of locking or securing the rails thereto; Fig 2 is a similar view of a reinforcing plate used in connection with the tie; Fig 3 is a perspective detail view of the tie; Fig 4 is a perspective view of a cushioning element used in connection with the tie; and Figs. 5 and 6 are detail views of a wedge and a key used in clamping or locking the rails in position.

Referring to the cut, 1 designates the tie, which is constructed of cement, and is rectangular in shape. Inclosed in the tie at the time of its being molded is a reinforcing plate 2, which may be made either of cast or stamped metal and is provided, adjacent to its terminal, with a brace wedge 3 and 4 respectively, the outer faces of which are rounded or curved to give the greatest strength and the inner faces of which are flat and disposed approximately at right angles to the length of the plate. The plate has on its upper surface, and near each of the braces, pairs of sockets 5 and 6, that are arranged in staggered order, with the orifices therein opening in opposite directions, the distance between the outer walls of each pair of sockets being substantially equivalent to the width of the rail base. These sockets are adapted to

Edward King, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rhoads, and Dr. and Mrs. H. D. Rank, Mrs. C. W. Miller, Mrs. Harry Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McGruder, Mrs. Channing Thompson, Miss Jeanie Irwin, Mr. Oscar Scheidler, Mr. Hubert Wright, Mrs. L. A. Weston of Waterville, Wash., and Mr. James Wright of Granville.

Mr. Charles L. Flory will entertain the Denison University Beta Theta Pi boys at his home on West Locust street this evening at 7 o'clock.

The Oceola club entertained as usual on Wednesday evening at Shamp Hall. The opening dance at Buckeye Lake will be given on June 20th.

Mrs. Ida Moser and son Walter, Mrs. Ralph Schreiber, Mrs. J. G. Bower, Mrs. Wm. Fulton, Mrs. J. W. Allen, Mrs. W. F. Spitzer, spent Friday afternoon at Buckeye Lake, the guests of Mrs. Fred Solinger.

On Friday afternoon the Auxiliary of the Episcopal church was very pleasantly entertained at the home of Mrs. Mackey on Hudson avenue, when the reports of the delegates to the Diocesan convention at Cincinnati were heard.

Mrs. Grant Jones also gave a very instructive and interesting talk on "The English Church in Egypt."

After the business session a social hour was enjoyed.

On Wednesday afternoon Miss Ruth Speer very pleasantly entertained the Bridge club at her home on East Church street. After an entertaining game the club prizes were awarded Mrs. Davidson and Mrs. Edward Thomas, while the guest's souvenir was received by Mrs. Frank Webb.

Dainty refreshments were served the club members and the following guests: Mrs. Charles Rankin, Mrs. Edward King, Mrs. C. W. Miller, Mrs. Howard Jones, Mrs. Frank Webb, Mrs. George Graesser, Misses Ida Moore and Grace Fulton.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hall of Uxbridge, celebrated the 25th anniversary of their marriage on Saturday evening, May 25. The guests present were 35 in number with Miss Linda Horton as hostess. At 8 o'clock they were called to a magnificent feast of good things. The evening was spent very delightfully and all bestowed showers of good wishes upon the genial couple. Many beautiful and valuable presents were received by Mr. and Mrs. Hall.

MR. BRAND GOES TO WASHINGTON STATE

Mr. B. Brand, the well known contractor and builder of this city, is about to engage in a new vocation. Last fall Mr. Brand, who had become infatuated with the wonderful tales of the richness of the Cheesaw country in Washington, and the great opportunities offered for making money, visited the region and prospected it thoroughly. The result was that he was thoroughly convinced that there was a great future for the country, being rich in minerals, such as gold, silver and copper, while the soil is exceedingly productive, and as a grazing country it cannot be surpassed. Mr. Brand took up 160 acres of government land, built a comfortable house on it and next week will move his family to their new home. It is Mr. Brand's intention to engage in the business of raising horses and cattle for the market as well as doing a general ranching business.

WELL DESERVED.

The Praise That Comes From Thankful Newark People.

One kidney remedy never fails. Newark people rely upon it. That remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills.

Newark testimony proves it always reliable.

Milton Smith, engineer on the B. & O. Railroad, and living at 323 E. Main street, Newark, O., says:

"Doan's Kidney Pills have been a family remedy with us and it has never failed in a single case. My trouble was kidney complaint and backache, brought on, I think, by the jarring of the engine. It affected me in the small of the back and every throb of the engine seemed to make the pain almost unbearable. The trouble was so deep seated that it defied all my efforts to cure it. After trying many different preparations in vain a friend who had been cured of similar troubles by Doan's Kidney Pills advised me to try them and I got a box at Craxton's drug store. The treatment with Doan's Kidney Pills rid me of all the trouble. My wife also used Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and kidney trouble and found a quick and complete cure. I know of many railroad men who have used this remedy for the same trouble that afflicted me, and in every case that I have heard of they have done the same good work."

Systemic Catarrh of Summer

Affects Many Organs of the Body.

"There is no better remedy in the world than Pe-ru-na for systemic catarrh."

S. B. Hartman, M. D.

A War Veteran's Experience.

General A. F. Hawley, 1335 25th street, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I have used Peruna and find it very beneficial for kidney trouble, and especially good for coughs, colds and catarrhal trouble."

Spring and Summer Catarrh.

There is a form of catarrh especially prevalent in spring and summer, called by Dr. Hartman systemic catarrh.

This form of catarrh especially deranges the stomach, bowels and other organs of the abdomen. The whole mucous tract lining the stomach, liver, bowels and kidneys is in an inflamed condition, and these organs fail to perform their proper function.

Systemic catarrh may be or may not be accompanied by catarrh in other parts of the body. In some cases there is a hacking cough. It may be also associated with catarrh in the head.

But, in typical cases of systemic catarrh all the organs of the abdomen are in a weakened and sluggish condition.

Dyspepsia and Bilioousness.

Sometimes it is called dyspepsia, at other times bilioousness, or the patient may be suspected of having kidney disease or appendicitis.

Systemic catarrh presents symptoms which resemble closely a great many different diseases.

Peruna has for a long time been regarded as the remedy par excellence for conditions of this kind.

The accompanying testimonials are sufficient to indicate the promptness with which Peruna relieves these symptoms and the satisfaction which people express concerning the use of Peruna.

Catarrh of Stomach.

Mr. W. R. Callahan, proprietor of Big Hill Farm, and a prominent fruit grower and stock raiser, Glenvar, Va., writes:

"I write to express my kindness toward you and your good medicine, Peruna."

"I had a very bad spell of sickness and could not eat anything at all."

"My head, stomach, in fact, my whole body ached, and it looked as though nothing would do me any good."

"I had almost given up. I decided to try a bottle of your Peruna and before I had taken half the bottle my appetite came to me and my head became all right."

The Old Story

Mrs. A.—Have you heard Mrs. C's new piano?

Mrs. B.—Yes, I heard it the day after it came.

Mrs. A.—How did you like it?

Mrs. B.—Sounded pretty good then but I haven't heard it lately.

Mrs. A.—It sounds like a tin pan now.

Mrs. B.—What! After only six months?

Mrs. B.—Too bad—'tisn't worth much now, I guess.

No, and it wasn't worth much when she bought it. For a little more she could have had a RAYMOND Piano, guaranteed for ten years, improving in tone, and good for a lifetime. stituting a cushion seat, the lower depression 10 being engaged by a lug or projection 11 on the under side of the cushion 12, which is made preferably of wood, and the upper depression 13 which extends throughout the width of the tie, being engaged by the lassoportion or latching engaging portion 13 of the cushion. The object of this cushion is to reduce the strain on the rail at the point where it bears on the tie and at the same time to render the connection between the rail and the tie of a yielding character.

When a rail is placed upon the tie, the two keys 7 are positioned as shown in Fig. 1, and wedges 14 are then driven in between the back of one key and the brace 3 or 4, as the case may be, and between the other key and the wall of the key-opening in the tie, thereby tightly forcing the keys against the base of the rail and the rail against the cushion, and at the same time positively locking the rail against possibility of working loose or becoming detached.

It will be seen from the foregoing description that while the improvements herein defined are simple in character, they will be thoroughly efficient for the purposes designed and will result in a large saving to railway companies, inasmuch as the only portions that will deteriorate with age are the cushions, which may readily be replaced when no longer serviceable.

MUDDLE IN THE GRAND STAND

WILL NOT OCCUR AGAIN SAY THE DIRECTORS OF THE BALL COMPANY.

Ball Players Fish at Buckeye Lake the Day After—Others Loaf For the Day.

There was considerable confusion in the grand stand at the afternoon game Thursday because of the fact that reserved seat tickets were sold bearing numbers with no seats to correspond. This was caused by the fact that the man who was to sell the tickets in the box office arrived late. Then too, persons who bought grand stand tickets without paying for the extra reserved seat took advantage of the company and got into the reserved seat section. To make the matter worse, the director who was seating the people in the reserved seats, retained the coupons so it was impossible to straighten out the matter.

The company will screen off the reserved seats before Monday's game, and all confusion in the future will be avoided.

Manager Bob Benyhill and Third Baseman Written and other members of the Newark team, took advantage of the off day Friday and went to the reservoir fishing.

The pitchers' mound which was built just before the game Thursday morning, may have been responsible for the pitcher's error. It threw over first about the height of the pitcher's box.

RELEASE OF PLAYERS.

Manager Bill Smith of New Castle has released Outfielder Ernest for the second time. In his place Smith has signed a man by the name of Clark who comes from college and who played last season with the Nicks. He has also signed an outfielder named Woodruff.

Manager Walter East has released Pitcher Eddie Kusel, and the lad will probably work for the Sandusky team. East has a string on the lad and if he makes good he can recall him.

SECRETARY TAFT MET HIS MOTHER IN CAPITAL CITY

WITH HER AND HIS BROTHER HE MADE A VISIT TO THE ARMY POST.

ALSO SAW THE GOVERNOR

Hon. Horace Chapman, V. H.—Fatal Runaway at Dayton—General Ohio News.

Columbus, O., June 1.—Secretary of War William H. Taft arrived here at midnight from St. Louis. This morning he met Governor Harris and the state officials and then made an official visit to the United States army post. In the afternoon he visited his mother, who came here from Cincinnati to meet him, and who will accompany him tonight on his return to Washington. Charles F. Taft of Cincinnati arrived here also to confer with his brother regarding political matters. Charles Taft said that no work was being done at this time outside Ohio to promote the candidacy of the secretary for the Republican nomination for the presidency, but that he had received many letters from other states, all of the most encouraging nature.

Secretary Taft's visit to the barracks was the first paid to this post by a war secretary in many years; in fact there is no record at the post of any such visit previously. Seventeen guns boomed as the distinguished visitor approached the reservation. As a finale to the ceremonies, dress parade was held, and the officers of the post called at the commandant's residence to pay their respects. Mr. Taft was the guest of Colonel Glenn while on the reservation.

Domestic Shot by Lover.

Columbus, O., June 1.—Mrs. Gertrude Mitchell, 22, and colored, employed as a cook at the home of Arthur Marx of Franklin avenue, was shot through the heart in the kitchen of the house soon after 6 o'clock last night and died almost instantly. The woman's slayer, Luto Thomas, employed at a pool room, fled after he shot the woman, and has not been captured. There were no witnesses of the killing, and thus far the police have been unable to develop a motive that will explain the murder.

Girl Makes Good as Constable.

Alliance, O., June 1.—This city has a 15-year-old girl who has made good as constable. She is Mary Mueller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Mueller. This week warrants were issued from the mayor's court for a number of foreigners, charged with disorderly conduct. Two of the warrants were placed in the hands of Miss Mueller, and within a short time she found the two and brought them before the mayor, who assessed fines.

To Operate Boats on Canal.

Columbus, O., June 1.—Though the first of the state's rebuilt canals will not be ready for use until next year, preparations are being made to take advantage of the waterway as a commercial practicability. The Ohio Canal Transit company of Cleveland has been incorporated with $75,000 capital to build and operate boats and warehouses along the Ohio and Erie canal and the tributary navigable streams.

State Officials Get Busy.

Columbus, O., June 1.—The state railroad commission is investigating the wreck of the Cleveland and Southwestern traction line at Elyria in which seven persons were killed and a number injured. Chief Inspector W. O. Jackson was sent to Elyria with orders from the commission to make a thorough investigation. The commission desires to take such measures as will minimize these accidents.

For Assault.

Wapakoneta, O., June 1.—Dr. J. C. Ludwig, 69, of New Bremen, who was last week indicted on the charge of assault, appeared in court and changed his plea from not guilty to guilty. He was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary.

Probate Court Has Jurisdiction.

Findlay, O., June 1.—The circuit court held that the probate court of Hancock county had jurisdiction in the case in which Prosecutor David filed information against the Standard Oil company, charging it with conspiracy against trade. Probate Judge Barker assessed a fine of $5,000, after a verdict of guilty had been rendered by a jury. The case was carried to the common pleas court. It held the probate court had no jurisdiction. The circuit court now reverses this. It is probable that an appeal will be taken to the supreme court at Columbus.

Horace Chapman III.

Columbus, O., June 1.—Horace L. Chapman, coal operator, who was recently elected temporary president of the Sunday Creek company, left Columbus for the Battle Creek, Mich., sanitarium, to receive treatment for bladder trouble. Owing to the seriousness of his condition, Mr. Chapman was accompanied to Battle Creek by his physician, Dr. H. W. Whitaker.

TEMISKAMING and HUDSON BAY, par value $1.00 paid 10,000 per cent. in dividends in a few months, jumping to One Hundred and Ninety-five Dollars per share; doesn't this prove that the WIDE-AWAKE ones are getting the goods?

And what about the West? Calumet and Hecla went for almost nothing, has sold up to $1,000 per share. What about COPPER QUEEN, UNITED VERDE and many others that have paid MILLIONS OF DOLLARS in dividends and added untold wealth to the world.

Look at GOLDFIELD, within one year MOHAWK has jumped from 8c to $20.00 per share. JUMBO and RED TOP sold up to $5.00.

TONOPAH of Nevada sold to $21.50 and others too numerous to mention all making spectacular advances, among a few were.

MADE A DASH FOR HIS LIBERTY

TEN YEAR OLD BOY WAS LEFT IN CHARGE OF MRS. WEBB

While Deputy Sheriff Hindel Looked After Insane Patient—Quickly Recaptured.

Harry V. Lee, the ten year old burglar who was sentenced to a term at the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster, Pa., for a burglary, got away from Deputy Sheriff Hindel, while he was taking him over to Lancaster. The Deputy Sheriff at the time had a patient for the State Hospital in his charge, and just before the car left this city for Columbus, the deputy left the boy in charge of Mrs. George P. Webb, who is interested in children, and who was going to Columbus, while he gave his attention to the patient. Suddenly the boy broke away from Mrs. Webb and made a dash for liberty. Deputy Hindel, however, seemed to be expecting a move of this kind, and the boy had not run a dozen steps before he was after him and succeeded in capturing him before he had run fifty yards. The boy ought to have known that he could not outrun the Deputy Sheriff.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by P. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, P. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

CHAMPAGNE VELVET BEER

COURTS COMPARISON

Place Champagne Velvet by the side of any other beer—subject it to all the tests known to the Master Brewer—of color, of taste, of lasting qualities, of nutritiousness, of "bouquet," so highly prized by connoisseurs, of purity, of foam-holding qualities—in short, of all the qualities that go to make up a superior beer—and you will unhesitatingly decide in favor of Champagne Velvet.

Comparison is never odious to the maker of a superior article.

In your selection of a beer, as in the selection of everything that finds its way on your table, you should insist on getting the best for your money. You get it by ordering Champagne Velvet.

Test Your Baking Powder

No doubt you remember the baking powder test made in your kitchen by one of our demonstrators. It's an eye-opener—and here it is! Take one teaspoonful of Egg Baking Powder and add five teaspoonfuls of water. In another glass, place one teaspoonful of "any other kind" of baking powder and five teaspoonfuls of water.

As the leavening gas forms in the glass containing the Egg Baking Powder, a foam like the beaten whites of eggs slowly rises, until it fills the glass nearly to overflowing. After twenty minutes the Egg Baking Powder will still be standing, lightly and foamily. Yes, and so firm that it will not fall, no matter how much you jar it. Now let's see what "the other kind" is doing.

TWO MORE SPECIAL PRIZES FOR ADVOCATE CONTESTANTS JUNE 3-8

Friday's vote of 10,978 brings the grand total in the Jamestown contest up to 179,861 and the indications are that the vote of Saturday will make it close to the half million mark. While the vote of May 31 makes but one change in the relative standing of the contestants, it brings Miss Goff within 1025 points of first place in District No. 1, advances Miss Bentz in No. 2, lessens the distance between Miss Bentz and Miss Dair in No. 3, brings Miss Miller close to first place in No. 9. In District No. 7 Miss Hays advances to second position and is now only 1675 points from first place in her district. Saturday's voting will decide the winners of this week's special prizes. All votes received up to 9 o'clock tonight will count in this award of special prizes. Who will get the silk dress and the silk parasol? Special prizes next week too. See today's announcement.

Two more special prizes are offered by Newark merchants for the best showing made in the Jamestown contest during the week ending next Saturday, June 8, at 9 p. m. The prizes for the week ending June 1, are given by the Griggs and Powers-Miller companies. This week the prizes are to be awarded by the National Biscuit company and The King company. Mr. Warren S. Weiland, who is just starting a contest of his own for the little folks, offers a five pound box of fine candy to the contestant who makes the largest per centage gain in her vote during the week of June 3-8. It will be noted that the contestants whose vote on Monday morning is lowest will have to secure less votes during the week in order to win the box of candy than will those whose vote is the highest. The other prize, offered this coming week by the King Company is a pair of fine Delsarte Oxford shoes, which may be seen in the window of the King shoe store. The King Company will give this pair of Oxfords to the young lady securing the largest vote during the week. The winners of the Powers-Miller silk parasol and the Griggs Company's silk dress can not be announced until Monday as all votes received up to 9 o'clock tonight (June 1) will figure in deciding the winners of this week's special prizes.

FRANCHISE

Held at Over $200,000 May be Sacrificed by Walsh, Owner of the Chicago Chronicle.

Chicago, June 1—Much mystery attaches to the suspension of the Chicago Chronicle, the announcement of which shocked the city, and especially the employees of the paper, with its suddenness yesterday morning. All day there were conferences and various rumors about its successor, these narrowing down to W. R. Hearst and Joseph Pulitzer. Hearst is especially anxious to secure the Chronicle plant and Associated Press franchise, but it is understood that John R. Walsh refuses to sell to Hearst, and prefers to throw away an asset worth over $200,000. Hearst's representative announced that all negotiations were off so far as his chief was concerned.

Late in the afternoon the Chronicle force was ordered to assemble in the office, it being the supposition that some sort of a paper would be issued to save the press franchise, which expired at six o'clock this morning unless a paper be issued. Later the force was dismissed, and H. W. Seymour, the editor, announced that he was going to retire. Asked if the paper had been sold he said: "You will have to ascertain that from the purchaser. Sellers rarely talk."

John R. Walsh flatly declined to answer any questions which would clear the situation. Meanwhile the employees are rapidly being absorbed by other Chicago papers. It is believed, however, that Joseph Pulitzer will break into the Chicago field, the opportunity being especially good at this time.

HOW McGRATH GOT AN ENGINE---By Frank H. Spearman

Cooney McGrath.

"Bucks," the Superintendent.

THIS came about through there being whiskers on the rails. Whiskers will grow on steel rails in the air of a single night; but not every night air will produce whiskers. It takes a high, frosty air, one that stays out late, to make whiskers. Take, for example, the night air of the Black Hills: it is known everywhere among steel rails as a beard tonic. The day's moisture, falling as the sun drops beyond the hills, is drawn into feathery, jeweled crystals of frost on the chilly steel, as a glass of ice-water beads in summer shade; and these dewy stalagmites rise in a dainty profusion, until when day peeps into the canous the track looks like a pair of long white streamers winding up and down the levels. But beware that track. It is a very dangerous track, and its possibilities lie where Samson's lay—in the whiskers.

So it lies in early morning, as pretty a death-trap as any flower that ever lured a fly; only this pitfall waits for engines and trains and men—and sometimes, too, gets them.

If trainmen in the Hills had their way, they would never turn a wheel until the sun had done barbering. To lessen their dangers, engineers always start, up hill or down, with a tankful of sand, and they sand the whiskers. It is rough barbering, but it helps the driver-tires grit a bit into the face of the rail, and in that way hang on. In this emergency a tankful of sand is better than all the air Westinghouse ever stored.

Aloysius McGrath was a little sweeper; but he was an assuring one; Aloysius worked in the round-house at the head of the Wind River pass on the West End Mountains. It is an amazingly rough country; and as for grades, it takes your breath merely to look down the levels. Three per cent., four per cent., five per cent.—it is really frightful. But Aloysius was used to heavy falls—he had begun working for the company as a sweeper under Johnnie Horgan, and no engineer would have thought of running a grade to compare with Johnnie's headers. Horgan was the first boss Aloysius ever had. He called Aloysius Cooney, as he said, for short.

Johnnie was ordinarily boss sweeper. He had suffered numerous promotions—several times to wiper, and once to hostler; but his tendency to celebrate these occasions usually cost him his job, and he reverted to sweeping.

When Johnnie was gone, using the word in at least two senses, Aloysius Cooney McGrath became, ipso facto, boss sweeper. It happened first one Sunday morning, just after pay day, when Johnnie applied to the foreman for permission to go to church. Permission was granted, and Johnnie started for church; but it is doubtful whether he ever found it. At all events, he turned up again at the round-house at the end of three weeks, considerably the worse for his attempt to locate the house of prayer.

Aloysius had improved the interval by sweeping the round-house as it never had been swept before; and when Johnnie Horgan returned, morally disfigured, Aloysius McGrath was already promoted to be wiper over his old superior.

After Aloysius got to wiping, he expected very soon to be firing. But he wiped many months, and there came no promotion. The trouble was, there were no new crews added to the engine service. Nobody got killed; nobody quit; nobody died. One, two, and three years without a break, and little Aloysius had become a bigger Aloysius, and was still wiping; he became also discouraged.

After three years of panic and hard times on the mountain division, the mines began to reopen, new spurs were laid out, new construction crews were put on, and a new activity was everywhere apparent. But to fill the cup of Aloysius' woe, the new crews were all sent up from McCloud.

But the memorable morning for Aloysius came shortly thereafter. It was one of those keen October mornings that bite so in the Hills. The construction train, Extra No. 240 West, had started about five o'clock down from the head of the pass with a load of steel for the track layers, and stopped for a bite of breakfast at Wind River. Above the round-house there is a switchback. When the train pulled in, the crew got off for some hot coffee. Johnnie Horgan was around playing good fellow, and he climbed into the cab to run the train through the switchback while the crews were at the eating-house. It was irregular to leave the engine, but they did, and as for Johnnie Horgan, he was regularly irregular. There were sixteen cars of steel in the string, besides a cabooseful of laborers. The backing up the leg of the nipper was easy. After the switch was newly set, Johnnie pulled down the lower leg; and that was too easy, considering the whiskers.

When he pulled by the eating-house on the down grade, he was going so lively with his flats that he was past before the crew could get out of the lunch-room. In just one minute everybody in Wind River was in trouble; the crew, because their train was disappearing down the canon; the eating-house man, because nobody paid him for his coffee; and Johnnie Horgan, because he found it impossible to stop. He had dumped the sand, it had applied the air, he had reversed the engine—by all rules laid down in the instruction car she ought to stop. But she didn't stop, and she was headed down a hill twenty miles long, with curves to puzzle a bus-constructor. John hung his head wildly over the drivers, looked back at the yelling crew, and contemplated the load that was pushing him down the grade; and his head began to swim. There appeared no one thing more to do, that was to make a noise; and as he reached the round-house he whistled like the wind. Aloysius O'Cooney McGrath, at the alarm, darted out of the house like a fox. As he reached the door he saw the construction train coming, and Johnnie Horgan standing in the gangway looking for a soft place to light.

The wiper chartered the situation in a mental second. The train was running away, and Horgan was leaving it to its fate. The laborers in the caboose, already bewildered, were craning anxiously from the windows. Horgan, opposite the round-house, jumped in a sprawl; and the engine shot past Aloysius so quickly that boarding was out of the question.

But on the siding stood a couple of flats, empty; and with his hair straight on centers, the little wiper ran for them and mounted the nearest. The steel train was jumping. Aloysius, bunching his muscle, ran the length of the two flats for a head, and, from the far corner, threw himself across the gap like a bat on a load of the runaway steel. Scrambling to his feet, he motioned and yelled to the hoboes, who were pouring frantic out on the high flat or the string, to set brakes; then he made ahead for the engine.

It was a race with the odds all wrong, for with every yard Aloysius gained, the train gained twenty. By the time he reached the tender, breathless, and slid down the coal into the deserted cab, the train was heading into Little Horn gap, and every Italian aboard, instead of twisting brakes, was yelling for life. Aloysius jumped into the levers, poked his head through the window, and looked at the drivers. They were in the back motion, and in front of them the sand was streaming wide open. The first thing he did was to shut it half off—the fight could not be won by wasting ammunition. Over and over again he jerked at the air. It was refusing its work. Where so many a hunted runner has turned for salvation there was none for Aloysius. He opened and closed, threw on and threw off; it was all one, and all useless. The situation was as simple as it was frightful. Unless the speed could be at least partly checked, either the engine would leave the track going into a curve, or the flats would leave it going out. Even if they didn't leave the track, they were certain to smash into Number Sixteen, the up-passenger, which must meet them somewhere on the hill.

Aloysius' fingers closed slowly on the sand lever. There was nothing on earth for it but sand, simply sand; and even the wiper's was oozing with the stream that poured from the tank on the whiskered rails. He shut off a bit more, thinking of the terrific curves below, and mentally calculated—or tried to—how long his steam would last to reverse the drivers—how he could, shovel coal and sand the curves at the same time.

The pace was giddy and worse. When his brain was whirling fastest, a man put his hand on his shoulder. Aloysius started, and looked into a face he didn't know from Adam's, but there was sand in the eyes that met his.

"What can I do?" shouted the man.

"Give me some steam—steam," cried the wiper, looking straight ahead.

It was the foreman of the steel gang from the caboose. Aloysius saw him grab the shovel and make a pass at the tender. Doing so, he nearly took a header through the gangway, but he hung to the shovel and braced himself better. There were neither words nor grins, but just another shovelful of coal a minute after; and the track-layer, in spite of the dizzy lurching, shot it where it belonged. Feeling that if one shovelful could be landed, more could, Aloysius' own steam rose. As they headed madly around the Cinnamon bend the dial began to climb in spite of the obstacles.

If there was confusion on the runaway train, there was terror and more below it. As the spectre flitted past Pringle station, five miles down the valley, the agent caught a glimpse of the sallow face of the wiper at the cab window, and saw the drivers whirling backward. He rushed to his key and called the Medicine Bend dispatcher. The dispatcher in turn called Soda Springs, ten miles below Pringle, where Number Sixteen, the up-passenger, was then due. He rattled on with his heart in his fingers, and answer came on the instant. Then an order dashed into Soda Springs:

To No. 16:
Take Soda Springs siding quick. Extra No. 240 West has lost control of the train. DL.

There was never such a bubbling at Soda Springs as that bubbling. The operator tore up the platform like a hawk in a chicken yard. Men never scattered so quick as when Number Sixteen began screaming and wheezing and backing for the clear. Above the town, Aloysius, eyes white to the sockets, shooting the curves like a meteor, watched his lessening stream of sand pour into the frost on the track. As they whipped over bridges and fills the caboose reeled like a dying top—fear froze every soul on board.

When Soda Springs sighted Extra No. 240 West, pitching down the mountain, there was the sensation of good men who see a disaster they are powerless to avert. Nor did Soda Springs know how desperate the wiper's extremity had become. Not even the struggling steel foreman knew that with Soda Springs passing like the films of a cinematograph, and two more miles of down-grade ahead, the last cupful of sand was trickling from the wiper's tank. Aloysius, at that moment, wouldn't have given the odd change on a pay check for all the chances Extra 240 and himself had left. He stuck to his levers merely because there was no particular reason for letting go. Yet, with all his figuring, Aloysius had lost sight of his only salvation—maybe because it was quite out of his power to effect it himself. But in making the run up to Soda Springs Number Sixteen had already sanded the rails below.

He could feel the help the minute the tires ground into the grit. They began to smoke, and Aloysius perceived the grade was easing somewhat. Even the dazed foreman, looking back, saw an improvement in the lurch of the caboose. There was one more hair-raiser ahead—the appalling curve at the forks of the Goose. But, instead of being buried over the elevation, they found themselves around it and on the bridge with only a vicious shunt. Aloysius' hair began to lie down, and his heart to rise up had he checked.

At the second bend below the Goose, Aloysius made a stop, and began again to breathe. A box was blazing on the track, and, with his handy fireman, he at once got down to do it. The whole thing shifted so mortal quick from danger to safety that the two never stopped to inventories that it was. They seemed to have vanished with the frost that turned them to destruction. They jumped together into the cab; and—whistling at the laborers strung back along the right of way—Extra No. 240 West began backing pluckily up hill to Soda Springs. The first man who approached the cab as they slowed down for the platform—in fact, people rather stood back for him—was Bucks, Superintendent of the Division; his car had come in attached to Number Sixteen.

"How did your train get away from you?" he asked of Aloysius; but his words were bitten with frost; there were neither speculation nor sympathy in his manner.

"It didn't get away from me," retorted Aloysius, who had never before in his life seen the man, and was not aware that he owed him any money.

"Quick talking will do more for you than smart talking," replied the Superintendent, crisply. "You'll never get a better chance to explain yourself."

Aloysius himself began to think so, but the foreman of the steel gang put in:

"See here, sport," he snapped, irreverently, at the angry official. "Why don't you cool your hat before you jump a fellow like that?"

"What business is it of yours how I jump a fellow?" returned the Superintendent, sharply. "Who are you?"

"I'm only foreman of this steel gang, my friend; and I don't take any back talk from anybody."

"In that case," responded Bucks, with velvet sarcasm, "perhaps you will explain things. I'm only Superintendent of this division—Buck's all; but it's customary to inquire into matters of this kind."

Aloysius nearly sank to the platform at the words; but the master of the hoboes, who had all the facts, went at the big man as if he had been one of the gang, and did not falter till he had covered the perspiring wiper with glory.

"What's the reason the air wouldn't work?" asked the Superintendent, turning, without comment, to Aloysius.

"I haven't had time to find out, sir."

"Find out and report to me. What's your name?"

"McGrath."

"McGraw, eh? Well, McGraw, look close into the air. There may be something in it for you. You did the firing?" he added, turning short again on the unabashed steel foreman.

"What there was done."

"I'll do a little now myself. I'll fire you right here and now for impertinence."

"I suppose you're the boss," responded the man of ties, imperiously. "When I made the crack, I'd made it harder if I had known who you were."

"You know now, don't you?"

"I guess so."

"Very good," said Bucks, in his mildest tones. "If you will report to me at Medicine Bend this afternoon, I'll see whether we can't find something better for your manners than cursing hoboes. You can ride down in my car, sport. What do you say? That will save you transportation."

Followed by a mob, eager to see the finish, Superintendent Bucks made his way up the track along the construction train to where Aloysius and the engineer of Number Sixteen were examining the air. They found it frozen between the first and the second car. Bucks heard it all—heard the whole story. Then he turned to his clerk.

"Discharge both crews of Extra 240 and blacklist them. Fire Johnnie Horgan."

"Yes, sir."

"McGrath, run your train back to Wind River behind us. We'll scare up a conductor here somewhere; if we can't, I'll be your conductor."

As he turned away, the engineer of Number Sixteen slapped Aloysius on the back:

"Kid, why the blazes didn't you thank him?"

"Who?"

"Bucks."

"What for?"

"What for? Jiminy Christmas! What for? Didn't he just make you an engineer? Didn't he just say, 'Run your train back behind us to Wind River?'"

"My train?"

"Sure, your train. Do you think Bucks ever says a thing like that without meaning it? You bet nor."

Bucks' clerk, too, was a little uncertain about the promotion. "I suppose he's competent to run the train back, isn't he?" he asked of Bucks, suggestively.

Bucks was scrawling a message.

A man that could hold a train from Wind River here on whiskers, with nothing but a tankful of sand and a hobo fireman, wouldn't be likely to fall off the right of way running back; he'd be turned dry. "He's been wiping for years, hasn't he? We haven't got half enough men like McGrath. Tell Neighbor to give him an engine."

He Knew Lincoln

By IDA M. TARBELL
Author of Life of Lincoln, etc.

IT was nothing less than an inspiration of genius for Miss Tarbell to conceive the idea of presenting the grand figure of our noble president, through the eyes and in the direct speech of a fellow townsman. Tender, touching, sublime in its simple faith and loyalty, this little personal record of neighborly and friendly relations with Lincoln, is one of the finest bits of imaginative writing in our literature. We believe that in the course of time this little masterpiece will be regarded as equally essential to the full understanding of Abraham Lincoln as the Gettysburg Address.

McCLURE'S

Who Chooses McClure's Chooses Wisely

McCLURE'S MAGAZINE is a synonym for a monthly installment of as good reading as the editorial force of McClure's can prepare or buy. We say "prepare" because McClure's is still following its old plan of employing on its staff men trained to interpret national events in an interesting and informing way. The same staff is able to select from the great number of articles and stories offered to McClure's those which are not only best in themselves, but which also will be most interesting to you.

Big Notes

THERE are always in McClure's two or three great serials which strike the big notes of magazine literature—stories important enough to be books, but offered first in McClure's Magazine. Such are Georgine E. Milmine's Life of Mrs. Eddy, Carl Schurz's inside story of American history, George Kibbe Turner's analyses of the inwardness of American cities, good or bad, Galveston being a type of the good and Chicago being a type of the bad, and finally, Maude Younger's sprightly experiences behind the scenes of New York dairy restaurants.

Bright Notes

THE short story as it is written in this country is one of the best expressions of American life, and is one of the most entertaining forms of reading. McClure's Magazine has always been the marketplace of good stories. Among names you will remember and will want to read again are Rex Beach, Viola Roseboro, Willa Sibert Cather, Percival Gibbon, Mrs. Wilson Woodrow and Henry C. Rowland.

BUY McClure's on the news stand, if you like to do it that way, but the better way is to subscribe for it by the year, either giving your dollar to the newsdealer or sending it to us. We do not care how you get it, just so you get it regularly.

CORRESPONDENCE BUREAU OF FASHIONS CONDUCTED BY MARJORIE DANE

Dear Miss Dane: Will you please tell me what will be the most popular color worn this summer? Will they wear red any? Also, will they wear embroidery hats this year?

—K. B.

There is really no one particular color more popular than another this year. The copper shades are seen a good deal and perhaps brown is first favorite just at present; that is, as a whole costume made up of many shades of this color. For instance, the gown will be of tobacco brown, with trimmings of leather color, the waist on the pongee shade trimmed with golden tan, and the hat of brown or gold straw with trimmings of ribbon or flowers running the scale from deep burnt ivory to darkest copper. The veil will be brown and the gloves and footwear in tan shades.

Such a costume is, of course, very stylish, but, unless one wishes to carry one color throughout the toilet, other colors will be quite as correct as brown; provided always that the chosen shade is becoming.

Red is not much worn in the summer for gowns. A red parasol or a red hat is effective worn with a white frock, and the same may be said of a red belt and tie, or red linen for facing collars and cuffs on a white linen suit.

The white embroidered hats will be as popular as ever.

Dear Miss Dane: I beg you to help me. I am 5 feet 7 inches in height, 36 bust, 26 waist and 44 hips. Is it anywhere near a good form? Have light brown hair, brownish gray eyes, fair, with plenty of color in my cheeks. Am 28 years old. I have a waist of each sample; do you think I can wear them? They were presents and how do you suggest the making of them? Also, what would look well on me for street suit and a thin dress?—Mrs. A. B.

You are exceedingly well proportioned. Your coloring also is good. The tan waist I should make with a yoke formed by three fairly deep tucks on each shoulder to yoke depth and close down the front under a box pleat. Have fairly full bishop sleeves, brought into turn-back cuffs, and finish the neck with a rolling collar. Flare the edges of tucks, box pleat collar and cuffs with a narrow frill of brown lawn ribbon or silk and wear at your throat a ribbon in cherry color or a pretty green.

The pretty Alice blue silk will look well made with a yoke of pintucks divided into groups with narrow insertion lace, cream or black, as you prefer, and running to the waist line. The sleeves will be quite full and end in deep cuffs of the pintucking, divided by lace bands of insertion. A street suit of navy, brown or dark green Panama would seem a good choice, made in pleated skirt and pony coat style, trimmed with braid. Both waists will go equally well with the green, navy or brown cloth. The thin dress may be checked cotton, voile or a pretty organdy, made with a full skirt, trimmed with tucks and insertion lace on the bottom and a full waist tucked to form a yoke and trimmed with rows of insertion. In the case of the cotton voile, the skirt could be tucked into the belt and then tucked in groups down the skirt. The waist could have tucks on the shoulders and be cut out in a square to wear with chemisettes. The belt will be of ribbon matching the prevailing color in the cloth and the sleeves will be full, tucked into narrow lace cuffs. Neither material will be expensive and both will launder well.

Dear Miss Dane: Your advice to me before has been so helpful that I am writing to you for some more. My husband, baby and I expect to take a short trip next summer in June or July and will visit with relatives part of the time. Will you kindly advise me what you think will be an appropriate outfit of clothes for such a trip? Also state how they should be made. I am 5 feet 2 inches in height, 34 bust, 25 waist and 40-inch hips; weight 130 pounds, have light brown hair, dark blue eyes and plenty of color, and am quite plump. I have two good black skirts, one Panama and the other etamine; have black voile for a dress with black taffeta and also red to wear under the voile. What would be a becoming model for the voile? I have a fancy white silk mull for a waist; would a skirt of the same make a pretty best light dress? How could I make such a dress so as to not make me look wider than I am? I think my clothes should be made on long lines, so as to make me look taller and thinner. I would like a white linen suit, skirt and jacket for the summer. Will white be worn as much as last summer? What would be a nice style for the jacket? What other clothes would I need? Do not want them very elaborate, but smart looking. What do I need in the way of hats? Of what materials and how should I make my baby boy's clothes? He will be 2 years old in July.—N. E.

I am sorry to have kept you waiting so long, but my mail is always so heavy this time of the year.

I am not sure whether a whole gown of the mull will be exactly a wise choice. You see, it would come more under the head of an evening frock, and so would only answer for very best day wear, so that if the gown must see much service a pretty taffeta

Marjorie Dane Patterns

Berthas are so very generally becoming to the little girl and so completely transform the frock that they are always in demand. Here are four exceedingly attractive examples, each of which is quite different from the other and which can be utilized in almost limitless ways. Any one is quite appropriate for the new dresses made from materials to match, but they also serve the very practical and desirable purpose of assisting in the problem of remodeling. Trimming of white on color or of plain color on figured is much in vogue this season and any one of these can be cut from such and arranged over the dress of last season, giving it a novel and up-to-date touch that will double its life. As illustrated one is trimmed with Valenciennes lace and with embroidery worked onto the material, another is embroidered at its edge and finished with a lace frill, while a third is made of all-over embroidery with banding, and the fourth is cut from plain linen and embroidered by hand. Variations of trimming and finish are, however, always possible and such garnitures always provide an opportunity for the exercise of individual taste and preference. No one of the berthas involves any great amount of labor and each and all are dainty, becoming and graceful. The berthas in the upper left-hand corner is exceedingly charming as illustrated, but allows of trimming of many sorts in the spaces marked off by the banding. Lace can be applied on triangular lines or motifs of embroidery or lace can be inserted if the needlework proves too great a task. The second berthas is very pretty with the hand work, but can be finished with straight banding at the lower edge and with medallions if liked. For the ten-year size will be required 3/4 yard of material 36 inches wide for any one with 55 1/2 yards of insertion and 3 yards of edging for the first model, 3 3/4 yards of edging for the second; 3 3/4 yards of banding for the third. A pattern, No. 5628, sizes 6 to 12 years, will be mailed to any address by Miss Marjorie Dane on receipt of ten cents. Address her at 44 East Twenty-third Street, New York City.

made up smartly would be more practical. However, if you decide upon the mull, make it up in Princess style, tucking bottom of the skirt. The waist could be made for wear with a guimpe, being taken into a band of the goods edged with a little frill at the top, the yoke to be of lace, figured net or lingerie. Full fancy sleeves will be tied to the arms with ribbon, white or a color, as you prefer, and ribbon ties will support the gown over the shoulders. If you can match the Panama, make a nonv coat. This, with the skirt will provide a good traveling suit and one for knockabout wear. You will need white waists, and one of small checked taffeta might prove a useful addition.

The black voile will look well made in a pleated skirt, the bottom finished with rows of ribbon.

The waist could be tucked on the shoulders, tapering to the waistline, the neck cut in a V for wear with chemisettes, and the front of the waist applied with ribbon and lace medallions that would run up the edges of the V. The sleeves will be puffed, ending in ribbon trimmed cuffs. The white linen suit could be made with pleated skirt and a fairly loose box coat, colored linen facing collar and cuffs.

With your etamine skirt and a neat blouse for morning wear, I don't see that you can need more dresses; a light wrap of pongee or taffeta may be necessary, however, and in regard to hats, a general ready-to-wear turban and a best hat will be plenty. As your best frocks are white and black, you may choose almost any color for your hat. Leghorn and golden straw are very much worn, with trimmings of malines, black velvet ribbon and any preferred flowers.

Make your little man's clothes in Buster Brown or Norfolk styles. He is not too young for the bloomers and blouse, and it is such a much more convenient way of dressing than the old style. Good materials are striped ginghams, linens, galatea, pique, and in woolen materials light-weight serge in cream and navy blue is always nice.

Dear Miss Dane: May I ask some advice as to some new spring clothes, along with mother? I am 23 years of age, height 5 feet 5 inches, waist 25 inches, bust 38, hips 42. I have dark brown hair, blue-gray eyes, clear, healthy complexion, with red cheeks. I am neither fair nor dark. What colors should I wear? Would I look well in a girldle or high belt? I wear my hair fluffed in front and back. Is this an up-to-date way of dressing the hair? I have a new checked street skirt, but want a jacket suit, a dressy gown and some pretty waists. Also suggest ways of making dresses. Should I get silk for waists? What kind of a hat will I need for traveling?—Tourist.

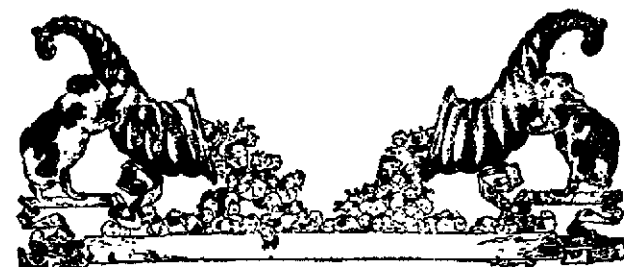

You are evidently a fair brunette, and colors becoming to this type are cream, ivory, pale yellow, all shades of gray, also fawn, tan, golden brown, dark green, old rose, pale pink, preferably on the coral and salmon shades; pale and navy blue, maize and certain shades of dark red. Your girdles should be high in the back and only medium in the front. The hair, as a rule, is becoming fluffed about the face, though this applies more to fair hair than to dark; the back might be coiled in figure 8, lengthwise, or round and round. Combs are not worn so much as formerly, the one high comb taking the place of the three long ones.

How would you like a gray Panama for the jacket suit, made with a pleated skirt and a pony coat, or a smart little Etton? This would become you and your normal figure will allow of almost any design being chosen that you fancy, except a coat with capes over the sleeve tops. Keep to long lines on that portion of your body above the waist line. White moire or kid would be pretty as a collar, cuffs and vest with a gray suit and embroidered linen—in colors—with navy, brown or tan. Pale resede green panne velvet is a second combination suggested.

For your dressy frock, voile, cologne, checked taffeta and polka dot foulard are alike good, the skirt full, tucked into the belt and trimmed with folds, each one headed with a self knife pleated frill. The bodice in jumper style, cut low in round yoke depth and slashed sleeves that will fall flat worn over a handsome lace blouse. Catch the corners of the slashed sleeves down to the puffs. The top of the waist and the sleeves should be finished with bands of the silk edged with little frills.

As to the material for the waists, their needs must decide the matter. A smart taffeta waist of a plain dark color or a check is always useful and should be plainly tailored, say tucks on the shoulders and closed down the front under a box pleat edged with little frills. Dotted Swiss makes up into pretty practical waists, as very little trimming is required, just a little lace collar and a few strips coming between groups of small tucks forming the yoke.

Madras is appropriate for morning wear, lawn and lingerie for afternoon. A good hat for traveling would be one of the close-fitting airship toques, of pliable erin folded into shape, black or the color of the suit trimmed with a couple of wings held to the hat by a pair of large headed hat pins.

GIRLS AND BOYS

The Trout That Polly Caught

By Sarah Noble Ives

Illustrated by the Author.

NONE of the boys could go fishing that afternoon. They all had errands and things to do for their mothers, so I had to get Polly to go with me.

She's most as good, and can put on her own worms and take off her own fish, and she don't squeal and throw them up the alder bushes (the fish I mean). She jest snakes 'em out like a fellow ought to.

I hollered a good deal afore I could make her hear, but I found her at last by the pig pen. She was feeding pickles to the pigs to make 'em wrinkle their noses. You can't think how funny they look when they get a piece of sour pickle in their mouth.

I said: "Come on, Polly, let's go fishing," and she was tickled to go, but she said, "I'll get my feet wet in the brook and mother'll scold."

I looked around and saw a pair of the hired man's boots on the woodshed steps. "Wear those," I said.

Polly said "All right," and I helped her haul 'em on. They most went up to her neck, and she couldn't move so awful spry in 'em, but she could clump along somehow.

Course Polly didn't have any fishing rod. Girls most always never do. But I let her have a hook and she got some twine and I cut her a first rate pole off a alder bush when we got to the brook, so she was fixed.

The brook's awfully pretty, with trees and bushes both sides and full of stones and little waterfalls, with nice still places between where the trout hide under the bank ready to pop out when they see a good worm dangling.

I know all the places where they hide, and I was purty generous and told Polly one or two of the places, but mostly she went fishing right straight along down her side of the brook, and I got the most fish.

We started up stream and fished down, and when we got most back to our meadow we counted up and I had nine and she only had three, and they were all little.

Well, I felt kinder sorry for Polly. She looked so rue-some, so I told her one dandy hole where I most always got a good one. There was a flat stone where it is shallow all around, and ripply, and you can stand on it and cast up stream into a hole where it is all dark and deep and still, and there's a spring under it that the trout like.

Polly went on the stone and put a fresh worm on and cast in. She didn't have to wait a second before there was a tug at her line. She let out a yell like an Injun and gave a jerk. But jest as she got him out of the water I saw that fish come loose from the hook and go scudding into the shallow water by the stone she was standing on.

Maybe you think it was all up with that catch. But you don't know Polly. She saw him wriggling on the pebbles and he'd have been gone in no time, but she wasn't going to give up so easy. In she went after him, head first—boots and all, and I can tell you she looked comical. But she got him all right—oh, yes! And in a minute she was crawling out with her fish grabbed tight in both hands. She'd shipped so much water in the boots that she could hardly walk, but I gave her a boost up the bank and helped her to empty 'em.

But that fish! He was a beauty, a sure enough glorinat, and Polly didn't care a mite how wet she was when she saw him on the string alongside the twelve little ones. He was bigger'n all of 'em put together. He jest cast 'em all into a deep shade.

Well, we thought we'd better go home, so Polly could get dried up, and it wasn't so bad a string anyway. I kited along ahead to show the string of fish to mother, so she wouldn't scold so hard when she saw Polly. (She was a sight.) I was telling mother as hard as ever I could and showing her the fish, when we heard Polly yelling away off across the meadow.

"She's hurt herself!" mother cried, and we both started off on the run. But when we got where we could see her, we both stopped and laughed. You see I'd forgotten about that stone wall, and there was Polly with one leg over, stuck fast. Those boots were so heavy with their own selves and the soaking they'd got that she couldn't get her feet over the wall, and there she was, red in the face with screaming to try and make us hear.

Mother lifted the boots over, and I gave her a pull, and she rolled over the wall and sat up on the ground and laughed as hard as we had—and mother laughed and I laughed and we all laughed, and mother never thought of scolding us for anything. We just went home to get our trout supper.

But I don't believe Polly has told her yet about the pickles.

QUEER THINGS

It's queer how many different ways a fellow seems to feel these days; Now while we're sitting in the school I feel as silly as a fool I feel as if I simply had, To go to sleep—I feel so bad, And yet the minute school is done, And we go out to have some fun, Why, all my tiredness just goes, And then I simply couldn't doze, And errands are the self-same way; A single one just spoils a day, The road is dusty and so hot, That errands bother us a lot, Yet on that road it's twice as far, To where the swimming places are; And still it really seems quite near, I'd say why I say that things are queer.

RIDDLE

I pour all things that I touch, Though no faces in me you'll spy, I'm a fearful, blood-thirsty brute, Though no man can I eat I'm sure. I am king of worms of all kinds, man's most useful slave, I destroy all that I pass, I'm free, and all I have, When I've caught all that's rich, I'm self-made millionaire, I'm clever ones, what am I?

ARABELLA'S DESIRE

"Sure," said Arabella, "it would be very nice, lions, wolves and tigers, could eat nothing but mice, and lambs and deer and calves, could live together in peace, and no one to annoy them, I'm sure that would be a nice cause to be worth thinking about, I might I sometimes find some big wolf, or lion, might bite off all my head, and so it would be nice, and better for my mind, lions, wolves and tigers, and mice were more included.

TIMELY FROCKS for SWEET SIX- TEEN

THE present season is exceptionally rich in designs for Sweet Sixteen. Of course, they are modeled more or less on the same lines as the garments of their mothers and grown-up sisters, but are given a few smart touches that make them quite distinctive. So many dresses are made with separate guimpes or yokes that it is an easy matter to give variety to the wardrobe. One feature that is admirable about a detachable guimpe is the facility with which it may be kept fresh. Just at present the lingerie touch at the neck and in the undersleeve is characteristic of the season's styles, and as the charm of white lace is gone when it has lost its first freshness, the guimpe or yoke that may be readily detached simplifies the matter greatly. Increased shoulder-width is one of the season's signs, and is attained not always by lengthened shoulder seams, but by added caps, bretelles or epaulets that extend out over the shoulders.

Pattern No. 5697 illustrates a waist of this description. It is especially becoming to the youthful figure and is constructed on the simplest lines, shoulder and under-arm seams being all that is required in the shaping. The garment is designed to slip on easily over the head, and even if plainly made will impart a dressy air to the costume when worn over a dainty lingerie or a lace under-blouse. It can also be worn over a slip of sheer white Persian lawn or China silk. The deep tucks that are taken up at the shoulders and stitched to yoke depth give the necessary fullness so becoming to the figure. The short sleeve caps are decidedly girlish and fall gracefully over the elbow sleeve of the under-blouse. As illustrated it was made of green and blue plain taffeta, but challis, henrietta, albatross, lousine and pongee are suggested. For a girl of sixteen years, 1½ yards of 44-inch material will be required.

Misses' Jumper: No. 5697. Sizes for 15, 16 and 17 years.

The design in a dainty development of white taffeta over a guimpe of cream dotted net, is one of the prettiest among the new styles. A graceful amount of fullness is provided, by tucks at the shoulders, and the shaped trimming band that outlines the neck and large arm-holes of the over-blouse adds greatly to the beauty of the mode. It would serve admirably as a separate blouse or as part of a costume, and would be especially pretty made up in a soft shade of Wedgewood blue. The guimpe may be of point d'esprit, all-over lace, mousseline de soie, Persian lawn, messaline and China silk.

Misses' Over-Blouse and Guimpe. No. 5772. Sizes for 15, 16 and 17 years.

Very attractive designs are shown in the stylish black and white checked fabrics. The one illustrated may form part of a costume or be worn with odd skirts. It is mounted on a fitted lining, which may be omitted. The yoke is cut in battlement edge. Three broad box-pleats contribute to the front fullness, while the back is quite plain except for slight gathers at the waist line. Cashmere, linen, pongee and taffeta are all appropriate. The sixteen-year size will require 2 yards of 36-inch material.

Misses' Waist. No. 5719. Sizes for 15, 16 and 17 years.

There are many designs in coats and jackets, but none more becoming than the box-coat. It has a deserved popularity in the stylish plaids and checks. The design shows the loose graceful lines so becoming to the slim girlish figure. The simplicity of the make-up is greatly in its favor and it may be safely attempted by the home dressmaker. The pattern allows for long or medium hip length, and for elbow or full length sleeves, either style finished by ornamental cuffs. The fronts lap in double-breasted style and a broad collar gives smart neck completion. The mode would develop well in tweed, broadcloth, cheviot, serge. For a girl of 16 years, 2½ yards of 50-inch material will be required.

Misses' Box Coat in long or medium hip length and with full length or shorter sleeves. No. 5758. Sizes for 15, 16 and 17 years.

The patterns will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents for each. Address Marjorie Dane, 44 East Twenty-third Street, New York City.
